

Wilma D. Abney Director - Compensation,
Organization Planning & HR Strategy

Wilma D. Abney is currently the Director - Compensation, Organization Planning & HR Strategy for DaimlerChrysler Corporation in Auburn Hills, Michigan. Appointed to this position in August 2006 she has served in a variety of director level positions within the Human Resource function since 1996 including previously having global responsibility for both the executive management development activities for the Chrysler Group and the launch of the DaimlerChrysler Corporate University.

As the Director - Compensation, Organization Planning & HR Strategy, Ms. Abney is responsible for the development of compensation policies and programs for all professional-administrative, management and executive employees including the implementation and administration of senior executive compensation programs and payroll. Responsibilities also include providing functional guidance on the development and execution of Human Resources strategy and corporate organizational planning activities.

Ms. Abney received her Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from Michigan State University in Communication and Labor and Industrial Relations respectively. Prior to joining the Chrysler organization in 1985 Ms. Abney has held a number of successively responsible positions in the human resources field at several other Fortune 100 companies including Ford Motor Co. and Exxon.

She and her husband Michael actively enjoy the parenting of their two sons Justin and Aaron.